

2021 GCV Daffodil Collection “Split Decision”

This year’s collection of Split Corona Daffodils ( “the butterfly daffodil”) are sure to be a wonderful addition to your gardens. The blooms in division 11a are defined by their split coronas hence the name “Split Decision”. The “decision” part is reflecting all the new decisions of the past year. Reference the ADS’ www.Daffseek.org for more photos and details.

‘Congress’ 11a Y-O This is a very showy daffodil registered in 1976 by J.Gerritsen and Son of the Netherlands. The Petals are a brilliant greenish yellow that contrast beautifully with the deep orange corona. It blooms mid to late season.

‘Electrus’ 11a W-GPP This lovely up-facing daffodil is known for its smooth heavy substance. The pure white perianth are slightly reflexed while the pink corona segments curve perfectly over the petals. ‘Electrus’ was Registered by Brian Duncan of Northern Ireland in 2001. It blooms mid-season.

‘Plant America’ 11a W-Y This is a mid-season blooming daffodil that grows best in full sun. The buttery yellow split corona fold beautifully over the white perianth. This daffodil is up-facing with a nice thick substance making for a long lasting flower.

‘Sailorman’ 11a Y-Y This enthusiastic daffodil was registered by J.Gerritsen and Son of the Netherlands in 2009. The perianth and corona are both a brilliant greenish yellow making a bold statement in your garden. The corona are heavily frilled. It also has a sweet scent. It blooms mid-season.

‘Sovereign’ 11a W-O This daffodil was registered by J. Gerritsen and Son of the Netherlands in 1973. Its ivory white perianth are the perfect backdrop for its deep yellow–orange split corona. A real show stopper. It blooms mid to late season.

When you place your order, you will be sent an emailed acknowledgment, which will include a 'process date'.
Your order should arrive about 10 days after that date, which should be around the time of your first frost and the best time to plant daffodil bulbs in your area. (mid-October to mid-November) If you are not going to be in town during that timeframe, please give us a call and we will do what we can to arrange for your order to arrive at a more convenient time for your schedule.

When your order leaves our warehouse, you will receive an email from whichever company (UPS, FedEx or USPS) is scheduled to deliver them to you.
