

The Womack Home

301 Magnolia Drive
(Bobbie Raye Womack, Homeowner)

Nestled in Danville's Forest Hills neighborhood, one of the city's best-known early suburbs, this area was planned in the 1920s by noted landscape architect Earle S. Draper. Designed for the new automobile era, Forest Hills is characterized by wide curving streets, distinctive traffic circles, and a mature tree canopy. This stately brick home was built in 1970 for Landon Wyatt Jr. It remained in the Wyatt family until it was purchased by Bobbie Raye Womack. Reflecting the clean lines of mid-20th-century design with classical influences, the house is distinguished by a full-width rear patio supported by soaring two-story columns. A newly added kitchen solarium floods the interior with natural light and frames views of the surrounding gardens. The home also incorporates a meaningful piece of family history: an ornamental iron rail, weighing more than 600 pounds, restored from the Wyatt family's 1876 Main Street home and now integrated into the front entrance porch. Inside, family heirlooms and antiques, including a rare French cloisonné and onyx clock with matching early-1800s candlesticks, lend warmth, elegance, and a sense of continuity to this inviting home.

The Martin Home

2 Country Club Drive
(Cynthia and Ted Martin, Homeowners)

Built in 1951, this elegant residence is a rare 3.44-acre country estate within the city, gracefully situated along the banks of the Dan River. With 5,858 square feet, the home features five bedrooms and seven bathrooms, combining impressive scale with timeless Southern charm. In autumn, as the leaves fall, the property opens to sweeping river views that enhance its natural beauty and sense of place. The classic white exterior with black shutters and a welcoming porch convey quiet sophistication. Inside, light-filled rooms flow seamlessly, offering comfort and livability. The interiors reflect the creative touch of the homeowner, a talented fabric designer, whose artistry brings warmth, pattern, and texture to every space. Outdoors, the home is equally captivating. A large Gunite lap pool anchors a series of inviting terraces surrounded by shaded lawns, mature trees, and colorful gardens. A charming guest house extends the home's hospitality, completing this riverside retreat that beautifully blends architectural grace, natural splendor, and artistic spirit. Parking is available along Country Club Drive, making it an easy walk to the home.

GARDEN CLUB
OF VIRGINIA

Historic Garden Week

DANVILLE - CHATHAM
TOUR

Thursday, April 23, 2026
10:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.

Hosted by:
Chatham Garden Club
Gabiella Garden Club
The Garden Club of Danville

Proceeds fund the restoration of Virginia's Public Gardens and a research fellowship program

 Historic Garden Week in Danville  @historicgardenweekdanville

The Dietz Home

(historically referred to as the "Tuggle House")
127 Westmoreland Court
(Jennifer and Lanny Dietz, Homeowners)

Designed by J. Bryant Heard and completed in 1928, the Tuggle House is a classic example of Georgian Revival architecture. Its symmetrical brick façade is defined by a two-story, semi-circular portico supported by white columns. The land was initially inherited by Harry Ficklen in 1872 and later sold as a 60-foot tract to Harry Gordon Tuggle of Milton, North Carolina, from whom the house takes its name. The current homeowners have preserved the home's elegance while adding welcoming features for modern living. A broad deck across the back is designed for entertaining and is filled in spring and summer with planters of native, pollinator-friendly blooms. Inside, the kitchen eating area features a lively collection of Coca-Cola memorabilia, adding charm and personality to this historic setting. An optional shuttle will drop guests at the corner of Westmoreland Court and West Main Street, just a very short walk to the home. Parking on Westmoreland Court is extremely limited. A free shuttle will depart from the Wednesday Club, dropping off and picking up guests at the corner of Westmoreland Court and West Main Street, one-half block from the home. Street parking is available on West Main Street.

River District Community Pollinator Gardens

1. Danville Museum Research Center
Sponsored by Langhorne House Museum
2. Ruby B. Archie Library
Sponsored by Danville Master Gardeners
3. City Hall
Sponsored by City of Danville
4. Old Worsham Street Bridge
Sponsored by Stronghold Adventures
5. Riverwalk Trail / Fountain Entrance
Sponsored by The Garden Club of Danville
6. North Main Rain Garden
Sponsored by City of Danville
7. North Main Street / Worsham Street
Sponsored by North Main Visionaries
8. HOME Park
Sponsored by Gabriella Garden Club

SPECIAL ACTIVITIES

- The Wednesday Club: Tour Headquarters
- River District Community Pollinator Garden Tour: Narrated Shuttles
- Shuttles: 10am-4pm from The Wednesday Club
- Shuttle Stop: West Main Street & Westmoreland Court - Access to the Dietz Home (other homes feature ample parking)
- 11am & 2:30pm: Expert Garden Talks
 - Planting Native Gardens - Jessica Smith
 - Invasive Insects and Plants: What to Look for and What to Do - Jessica Driver
- 4pm: Native Floral Design Showcase with Katie Wright-Thomas (KatieDid Florals)

Thank you to our sponsors

